ADDINGTON FALL FAIR

The Addington County Fall Fair was held at Tamworth on Wednesday. The weather was ideal, the crowd of people in attendance larger than usual, the exhibits about as large as heretofore, and on a whole the fair was most successful. Some very fine specimens of live flesh were much in evidence and the shooting in the ring was keen and exciting and furnished much sport for the large crowd of spectators. The Enterprise band furnished music for the occasion. Messrs. John O'Brien, President; G. H. Richardson, Secretary; and L. Way, Treasurer, who appeared to be the active members of the exhibition were courteous and very attentive in handling the crowd of people and are deserving of much praise, and to their activities no doubt, is due to a considerable extent the success of the exhibition.

Following is the prize list:

BATH.

School opened last Tuesday with a new staff of teachers. Miss Kilty, of Clinton, is principal; Miss Driscoll, of Trenton, in the intermediate room; and Miss Adams, of Westport, in the junior room.

Miss Lena Mott left on Saturday for Rochester, N. Y.

The U. S. Government Survey Boat stopped at this port on Wednesday night. It carries a survey party of twenty-five besides the crew.

Rev. Mr. McTear is spending his holidays with friends in Guelph.

Mr. Beattie, of Comber, is acting as manager of the N. C. bank here, in the absence of Mr. Cappage, who, with Mrs. Cappage, left for Toronto for a vacation.

ENTERPRISE.

The farmers are ploughing and threshing.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmor Raymond have returned home after visiting friends in Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Wolfe, of Rochester, N. Y., have just returned home after visiting friends and relatives here and at Fifth Lake and Wagerville. They were accompanied by their niece, Miss Effie Haley.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Walker and daughter, Florence, also Patrick Murphy and two sons, Evert and Stafford, and a number of others took in the Toronto exhibition.

A number from here attended the Free Methodist conference at Kingston the last of August.

Visitors: Mrs. Henry and Mrs. Jemison Wager at Cyrus Wager's on Thursday; Miss Marie Burgess at Earl Raymond's; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Raymond at Mrs. Wm. Burgess' on Sunday.

Rev. A. M. Gunter is again the Free Methodist pastor here.

STELLA.

Threshing is nearing completion, and farmers are commencing ploughing. The corn crop is very good over the island. Buckwheat is poor. Potatoes and other roots, with the recent rains, will be very good. Apples are small and not very plentiful.

Quite a number of the islanders attended Toronto exhibition.

Mrs. J. Ennis was taken to the Kingston General Hospital, on Wednesday, to undergo treatment.

The schools have all re-opened, after the summer holidays, with four new teachers. No. 2 is in charge of Miss McTear; No. 3, of R. W. Cumberland; No. 4, Miss McWalters; No. 5, Miss N. Burleigh.

Miss Mary Finnigan has accepted a school on Wolfe Island.

Miss Mary Fleming has accepted a school at Joyceville.

Miss E. Glen and Miss L. Cochrane are attending the model school in Kingston.

PURITY and QUALITY

These two essentials explain the great increase in demand for our bread since the installation of our new electrical mixer.

We have now a thoroughly up-to-date and sanitary bread plant, including bread mixer, sanitary steel troughs, etc. As a result we are able to place before the public a pure, clean wholesome, smooth-grained loaf of bread.

We ask all housewives who desire purity and quality in their bread to try a loaf of this bread and be convinced of its superiority.

Feeding the Farm Horse.

The ideal ration is one that keeps the horse in a good, thrifty condition at a minimum cost. One serious mistake made by practical farmers is to feed working rations on idle days, thinking to prepare the horse better for the heavy work to come. A good practical ration for a 1,500 pound horse doing hard work is ten pounds of corn, eight pounds of oats, two pounds of bran and twelve pounds of clean, bright, mixed hay. The bran is a laxative and may be used as a corrector. If the horse is allowed the run of pasture during the night the bran should be entirely eliminated.—Country Gentleman.

WESTERN FAIR OPENS

Fine Attendance Marks First I London's Exhibition.

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 9.—The Fair opened in earnest yesterday. The exceptionally fine weather prevailed gave promise of a good attendance Monday, and hopes were disappointed. The grounds andings were in excellent condition taken by and large, the exhibits considered by visitors to be considerable in advance of other years.

The first of the two daily performances of acrobats and other entertainments was given in the grand stand yesterday afternoon. Last evening the performance was thoroughly enjoyed and was running more smoothly, and was a larger crowd. While those visited the fair in the evening, as fine a fireworks display as ever been given in London, those sat on the grand stand in the noon were entertained by some interesting horse races.

CHILD DEAD IN FIRE.

Disastrous Blaze Visits Timmins Sweeps Dwellings.

TIMMINS, Sept. 9.—Fire has cost the life of a child and several frame buildings which comprised the first business section in Timmins in the early days. The loss is estimated at about $20,000. The fire broke out in the upper o' the Ottawa House, a frame and got a good start before it was discovered. A stiff wind was blowing and the entire centre of the town appeared to be in danger at one time.

The child, which is believed to be buried in the debris of the Ottawa House, could not be found after the fire broke out, and was not trapped in some portion of the building. It has not been since.

E.M.C. Syllabus Antiquated

KINGSTON, Sept. 9.—The Ministry of Militia is dissatisfied with the syllabus of the Royal Military College which he thinks is not up to date and will see that it is improved. He is satisfied with the work being done by the military staff of the institution. The curriculum is behind the times and the college does not give the educational training that it should. Sam Hughes had a conference in Ottawa with the acting commandant and Prof. I. E. Martin, the latter in charge of the mathematics department. Prof. Martin is to report to the Minister as to changes to be made in the syllabus. He will be made director of studies.

"The service," he said, "will follow the plans brought forward in Ottawa, and the different provinces be used as zones."

The service will be of great benefit to the residents, concluded Mr. Pelletier.

TOKIO IN A FERMENT.

Riot Leaders Are Arrested and One Paper Is Suppressed.

TOKIO, Sept. 9.—Anarchistic expressions appearing in the Japanese press in connection with the agitation over the killing of Japanese at Nanking, and by the assassination of the directors of the political bureau of the Japanese Foreign Office, Mortiato Abe, led to the suppression yesterday of The Niroku Shimbun, an independent newspaper.

The journal asserted that the punishment of the spies of Yuan Shih Kai, the Chinese provisional President, has just commenced; that the murder of Director Abe was a heavenly judgment, and that other assassinations would follow.

The members of the Japanese Cabinet are being constantly protected by detectives.

The police arrested the ringleaders of the mobs which were assembling to hold another meeting here yesterday and the meeting was not held. Premier Yamanoto received the organizers of Sunday's meetings and informed them that there was no necessity of sending armed forces to China at present.

According to another version the Premier declared that the sending of troops to China might bring about the partition of that country by the powers.

This city is filled with unsubstantiated rumors that the occupation of Chinese territory is impending.

Gen. Viscount Yoshimichi Hasegawa, chief of the general staff, and Gen. Viscount Kagaaki Kawamura, commander of the Tokio garrison, conferred yesterday with Emperor Yoshihito at Nokko.

The Chinese Government has apologized to Japan for the murder of several Japanese at Nanking and has ordered an investigation. The Chinese note voiced the desire that a peaceful solution of the affair be reached through diplomatic channels.

BODY WAS CUT UP.

New York Police Find Part of Torso Floating In River.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The chest and back of a woman was found floating in the Hudson River, along the New Jersey shore opposite this city, on Friday. The balance of the torso was found nearby Sunday night. The head, lower arms and legs are still missing.

An autopsy revealed that the body was dismembered while life remained. Death was ascribed to the shock caused by the severance of the limbs and head.

Because of the absence of the murdered girl's head the physicians could only guess that the victim had been stunned either by a blow or by inhaling some anaesthetic, and that while she lay in a coma the work of dismemberment was done. No mark of knife or bullet appeared on the torso — there was no trace of poison in the stomach.

Both packages found were in linen pillow covers bearing an embroidered "A." On the back of the body, was either a birth mark or tattoo work that also had much the form of the letter "A."

SORRY FOR INDIGNITY

Magistrate Acquits Lawyer Jerome With an Apology.

In Dismissing Charge of Gambling Laid Against Celebrated U. S. Counsel, Magistrate Mulvena Says He Speaks In Behalf of Right-Minded Canadians—Jerome May Be Permitted to Conduct Case.

COATICOOK, Que., Sept. 9.—Wm. Travers Jerome was acquitted last night of the charge of having gambled on Thursday last on the station property of the G. T. R. here while waiting for the immigration authorities to pass on the case of Harry K. Thaw. In discharging him the court apologized for the humiliation to which he had been subjected.

The hearing before Magistrate Henry Mulvena of Sherbrooke, lasted less than an hour. It began at 7:35 o'clock, and at 8:20 the court said:

"Sir, you are honorably discharged."

Joseph Beaulieu, a Coaticook lawyer, who said he variously represented justice, the people and the criminal code, interrupted the afternoon session, but when he endeavored to renew similar tactics last evening he was ruled out of court. After taking the evidence which was trifling, the prosecution asked for a conviction. The defence did not even sum up its case.

Magistrate Mulvena leaned back and pondered, for not more than 50 seconds. "In rendering judgment," he said, "I shall be very brief. I believe every right-minded man in Canada regrets and feels the humiliation at the indignity which has been placed upon you. It is excusable neither in law nor in fact. The evidence adduced at the hearing gives no reason for the charge which was laid against you, nor for the indignities which you have suffered.

"I believe, sir, in all the circumstances, you will not attribute the apparent offence offered you while in a friendly country, in the discharge of your duty as a public officer to the real thinking people of this community. You are, sir, honorably discharged."

When acquitted Mr. Jerome thanked the court, spoke flatteringly of his reception in Canada, and added that he did not attribute his arrest and brief imprisonment last week to the thinking people of the Dominion. He took a late train from Coaticook last night in order to be in New York tomorrow, and will return to Montreal later.

May Extend Rare Privilege.

MONTREAL, Sept. 9.—If the judges of the Court of King's Bench prove willing the hearing of the Thaw appeal against the immigration act may prove to be unique in still another manner.

When formal application was made for the writ of habeas corpus directed to the immigration officers last Friday, Mr. Lafamme also had a lengthy private conversation with Judges Gervais and Cross, in the course of which he made a special request that, if the case came before the courts Wm. Travers Jerome should be allowed to speak.

Although American lawyers have no right to speak in a Canadian court, Mr. Lafamme considered that, under the circumstances this courtesy might be extended to Mr. Jerome. As the makers of the appeal show a desire to depart from the usual custom, it is

A SKELETON IN THE CLOSET.

Tragic Story of the Origin of the Familiar Expression.

"A skeleton in the cupboard" is a familiar expression which has a tragic origin. The story is that a certain widow in England had a son in India, but owing to his failing health his mother became very anxious for his return. Berlin Police Exonerated of Blame In Griffin Case.

BERLIN, Ont., Sept. 9.—"That Joseph Griffin came to his death by rupture of the bladder, the cause of which is unknown to us. We further find that no blame for said death can be attached to P. C. Meehan or P. C. Farrell."

The foregoing is the verdict of the coroner's jury, which inquired into the death of Joseph Griffin, who died at the General Hospital, on Thursday night last, under peculiar circumstances.

Seventeen witnesses were called in all, but they failed to prove who inflicted the wounds, which caused the death of Griffin, although, the evidence showed that he was ill-treated by some one.

be allowed to speak.

Although American lawyers have no right to speak in a Canadian court, Mr. Lafamme considered that, under the circumstances this courtesy might be extended to Mr. Jerome. As the makers of the appeal show a desire to depart from the usual custom, it is practically within the jurisdiction of the court to permit this if it sees fit, in which case still another new departure will be, evolved in the already unique Thaw case.

J. K. Greenshields, K.C., was engaged in a famous forgery case a few years ago in New York. At that time, although he was the chief counsel for the defence, he was not permitted to take part in the proceedings before the court. By way of returning good for evil, Mr. Greenshields has added his request to that of Mr. Lafamme that Mr. Jerome be permitted to handle the State of New York's interest before the court in person.

Anxious to accede to his wishes, the mother hunted long and finally found a lady who apparently fulfilled the condition. The lady listened in silence to the request and then invited the widow into her bedroom, and there she opened a cupboard, which contained a human skeleton.

"Madam," she said, "I endeavor to keep my trouble to myself, but every night my husband compels me to kiss that skeleton, which was once his rival, whom he killed in a duel many years ago. Think you that I am happy?"

Then the mother wrote to her son of the fruitless errand, and his reply was:

"I knew when I gave you the commission that every one had his cares, and you, mother, must have yours. Know, then, that I am condemned to death and can never return to England. Mother, mother, there is a skeleton in every house!"

Ysaye's Lost "Strad."

Of fiddles lost, stolen or strayed the most notable instance within recent times is the disappearance of the violin belonging to the great player Ysaye. It was a Stradivarius, made in 1732, and one of the violins shown in the loan collection of musical instruments at South Kensington in 1885. It was the practice of Ysaye, as of every other great player, to carry with him two violins, so that in case of accident he might have one to fall back upon. The stolen one was left unattended in the artist's room below the orchestra. It vanished, and in consequence of the hue and cry that resulted the instrument has never come to light again. Nor can the possessor of such a violin bring it to light while the present generation of experts is alive, for infallibly it would be recognized.—St. James' Gazette.

The Aged Hare.

About 500 years ago there lived in Aghsulin, a little town in Asia Minor, an imam, or village parson, the Khoja Nasr-ed-Din Effendi. Harry Charles Lukach says that one day a camel passed along the street in which the Khoja lived, and one of the Khoja's neighbors who had never seen a camel before ran to ask him what this strange beast might be.

"Don't you know what this is?" said the Khoja, who also had never seen a camel, but would not betray his ignorance. "That is a hare a thousand years old."—Pall Mall Gazette.

Bitter Disappointment.

"What's wrong with that melancholy man you were talking to just now?"

"He has been disappointed in love."

"Too bad! Did some other fellow get the girl?"

"No; he got the girl, but she won't support him."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Nearness.

"I came very near doing what I set out to accomplish," said the man, with great self confidence.

"Yes," replied the cruel cynic. "But that's what the man said when he put the paste brush in the ink bottle."—Washington Star.

WHAT MIGHT

SOME SHAMEFUL THINGS A LIBERAL GOVERNMENT WOULD HAVE SPARED CANADA.

Supposing the Laurier government had remained in power at the elections of 1911 what would have been the result to Canada?

Would the expenditure of last year have been $144,456,353, although the expenditure on the N.T.R. had been greatly reduced? The total expenditure for the last year of the Liberal government was only $122,861,250.

Would the question of Canadian Naval assistance to the empire have been indefinitely hung up while the Premier was trying to find some policy that would suit both his Nationalist and jingo allies? The Liberal government had settled the question and was prepared to go on in accordance with the agreement entered into with the Imperial government and Australia in 1910.

Would the expenditure on Public Works have increased to $20,121,198 as it was last year? It was only $12,958,916, for the last year of the Liberal government and the country was well satisfied.

Would the expenditure on Militia have increased to $8,844,458 last year and to between 10 and 12 million dollars this year, with more than half a hundred drill halls to be planted all over the landscape? The militia expenditure in 1911 was $6,868,651 and Canada was safe as it is to-day.

Would there have been friction between the two parties as to the propriety of the Dominion Government interfering in provincial affairs, as in the Highways Aid Bill and the Agricultural Aid Bill? The policy of the Liberal government was always to preserve provincial rights and leave expenditures which belonged to the provinces to them.

Would Mackenzie and Mann have been presented with $15,000,000, an additional gift after the guarantee of bonds given them in previous years? The Liberal party to a man voted

LORD HALDANE'S VIEWS.
GAVE COLD CHILLS TO BORDEN'S
EMERGENCY SHOUTERS.

Lord Haldane's visit to Canada gave very little comfort to the emergency seeking jingoes of the Borden government and their supporters in the press. Great efforts have been made to magnify the British Lord Chancellor's statesmanlike utterances into an appeal for the Borden $35,000,000. Nothing could have been further from Lord Haldane's thoughts, if his words expressed his views, as they undoubtedly did.

Lord Haldane at Montreal declared that the British navy was "of course, the most proficient and powerful in the world," that there would never be the slightest chance for conscription, as Great Britain had an infinitely better supply of free sailors than any other country could possibly get with or without conscription. As to Canada's share he simply said, "If you desire to come to our aid, it would be a great help to the United Kingdom and a considerable source of strength to the Empire."

Not one word to indicate whether Lord Haldane preferred $35,000,000 cash or a Canadian navy, only a reflection on the Tory party in reversing the situation as it was at the time of the unanimous resolution of parliament in 1909. He emphatically declared that the manner of aiding was a matter for Canada to decide for herself. Nowhere in any of Lord Haldane's utterances was there the slightest sign of misgiving as to Great Britain's future. He gave no idea of the "Weary Titan" calling for help. He emphatically declared that if Canada did not care to assist the mother country she was capable of bearing the burden of Empire alone.

The Borden emergency is as hopelessly discredited as is the Borden government.

WHY THIS INACTION?
GOVERNMENT MAKES NO MOVE TO ENFORCE ANTI-TRUST LAW.

It is something like eight months since the Royal Commission appointed under the Liberal Government to investigate the United Shoe Machinery Co.'s business under the anti-trust legislation (passed by the Liberal Government) sent in its report. The Company was warned, as a monopoly in restraint of trade, that it must within six months change its business so as to abandon its monopolistic methods. The company went on with its business. When the six months were up it was sent a perfunctory enquiry by the government and returned a reply which no one seemed to understand. Since then nothing has been done. It is evident that the

FAST SWIMMING.

Strokes to Use and Methods to Follow to Acquire Speed.

The general rule may be set down that no swimmer should attempt speeding—and I mean in practice as well as in racing—until he can cover a quarter of a mile with a good stroke. It matters not whether one aims at becoming an all around competitor or a specialist at the sprints, the same rule obtains. Once the stroke has been perfected, the chosen events may be taken up, but even then it is the best policy to alternate fast swimming with easy stretches, at moderate pace, under the watchful eye of the coach. It is always advisable to limit the number of time trials.

There are but two strokes which can be recommended to the racing man for free style swimming, the crawl for distances not exceeding 220 yards and both the crawl and the trudgeon for longer journeys. Some question is still in the mind of many as to which is preferable for the latter events, but in the writer's opinion—based upon the teachings of the past—any set of movements which affords best results at the furlong will also prove best at the longer courses after the swimmer has accustomed his muscles to the action by constant practice.—Outing Magazine.

SLAUGHTER IN BATTLE.

Gettysburg Losses Eclipsed Those at Balaklava and Inkerman.

At Balaklava the light brigade lost 37 per cent of its men, and at Inkerman the guards lost 45 per cent, and both go down to history in verse and prose as having been annihilated.

At Gettysburg the Second Wisconsin lost 233 out of 302, the Nineteenth Indiana lost 210 out of 288 and the One Hundred and Fiftieth Pennsylvania volunteers out of 380 men and 17 officers brought back about eighty men and only one officer not wounded. The One Hundred and Twenty-first, the One Hundred and Forty-second, the One Hundred and Forty-third, the One Hundred and Forty-ninth and the One Hundred and Fifty-first Pennsylvania lost quite as heavily.

Among the First corps officers wounded in the first day's fight were Generals Doubleday, Meredith and Paul and Colonels Morrow, Stone, Wister, Fairchild, Dudley, Biddle, Tilden, Leonard, Coulter and McFarland. The disasters of the afternoon to the Second division were lessened by its capture of much of Iverson's brigade, of Ewell's corps, out at the Mummasburg road, near Oak hill.—General H. S. Huldeker in National Magazine.

Puzzled Jurymen.

At a recent session a prisoner was indicted for pocketpicking, and to most people in court the clearest possible case was made out by the prosecution.

"Have you anything you would like to tell the jury before they retire?" said the judge.

"Well, all I wanter say is, I hopes as 'ow they'll give me the benefit of the doubt," replied the prisoner despondently.

The jury considered their verdict. They were no little time over it.

"Can I assist you in any way, gentlemen?" said the judge, as last becoming impatient.

"We are almost ready, your Honor."

In Ottawa the credit system came so completely the habit of dealers and storekeepers alike, that the dealers even object to cash. The story is told of a Toronto newspaper man, who a member of the Press Gallery years ago, that when she offered cash to her grocer, that worthy fled. She had asked him for a reduction in the price of her purchases, that she was willing to pay cash as everyone else seemed to demand credit, and long credit she thought she ought to be a discount.

"My dear madam," said she, "I could not allow you a discount kind. Moreover, I would prefer you should go on the credit system everyone else. the Highways Aid Bill and the Agricultural Aid Bill? The policy of the Liberal government was always to preserve provincial rights and leave expenditures which belonged to the provinces to them.

Would Mackenzie and Mann have been presented with $15,000,000, an additional gift after the guarantee of bonds given them in previous years? The Liberal party to a man voted against such a thing.

Would there have been three Nationalist anti-Imperialist ministers in the government? Sir Wilfred Laurier always opposed the National movement in Quebec and suffered severe reverses in that province by refusing to join the disloyal campaign which was ultimately paid for by the Tory party.

Would the country have been disgraced by such election crimes as occurred in the Macdonald, Richelieu and Hochelaga by-elections? Nothing of the sort was ever known during the 15 years of Liberal government.

Would the N. T. R. have been degraded from the original splendid plan which was one of the cardinal principles of the Liberal government, that the N. T. R. should be kept to a 4.10% grade so as to ensure the cheapest possible transportation for grain.

Would Canada have been made absurd in the eyes of the British people by the antics of such an extravagance militarist as Col. Hon. Sam Hughes with his gold plated staff? Sir Frederick Borden always ruled the Militia department with dignity and kept the circus parade business down.

Would the country have had two sessions of parliament with scarcely a single article of the government's pre-election programme put into force, and most of their promises broken? During the first two years of the Liberal government the tariff was reformed in such manner that stagnation of business suddenly changed into prosperity, while the Imperial preference opened up a new era in the Empire's relations.

Would the country have witnessed the wholesale dismissal of Civil Servants in order to make room for party heelers: the appointment of expensive men as commissioners to assist in this work: the neglect of public business while the government strove to undo or vitiate everything that had been done by the Liberal government, and the ministers spending the whole summer carousing over the world at the country's expense, while the real business of the Dominion was neglected?

Would Canada have witnessed such a sight as the Minister of Labor refusing to use legislative machinery to settle strikes whenever the great interests were averse to such a thing and then have him run away to England in the middle of one of the most violent and disastrous strikes that have ever occurred in Canada?

The records of Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux and Hon. MacKenzie King show that they continually succeeded where the present Labor department has apparently willfully failed.

Would the people of Canada ever have elected such a government had they imagined what would have happened when Mr. Borden by his double faced policy attained power?

Company was warned, as a monopoly in restraint of trade, that it must within six months change its business so as to abandon its monopolistic methods. The company went on with its business. When the six months were up it was sent a perfunctory enquiry by the government and returned a reply which no one seemed to understand. Since then nothing has been done. It is evident that the company knew the change of government meant a change of policy where "the interests" were concerned. It is also evident that the Borden government is as anxious not to enforce anti-trust legislation which might discommodate its friends, the trusts, as it is determined to neglect the Liberal legislation when it might bother the same friends.

WHAT HAS MR. FOSTER DONE?

Has anyone yet discovered what Canada gained by the six months journey to the ends of the earth taken by Hon. Mr. Foster, ostensibly to advance Canada's trade interests? When the next Auditor General's report come out the people will learn that Mr. Foster's expenses were by no means so small as his performances.

WHERE LABOR IS NEGLECTED.

Labor Day, the day appointed by the Liberal Government for celebrating the advances of labor interests, was celebrated throughout Canada with great eclat. Reports do not show that it was the occasion of any particular rejoicing in the strike stricken district of British Columbia. Nor is it on record that the Dominion Government evinced any great interest in the occasion, except that the Premier allowed Hon. Mr. Crothers to get away to England, in order to hide his incompetence as Minister of Labor.

PREPARING A VACANCY.

Mr. Samuel Price, law partner of Hon. T. W. Crothers, the Minister of Labor, has made such a record of failure as commissioner at the British Columbia coal mine strikes that he has been given another job. In fact Mr. Samuel Price is almost permanently in government employ, at large pay, for work of one kind or another. This time Mr. Samuel Price has been selected to investigate charges against the immigration inspector at Brudenell, Ont. Mr. Price should know his work well enough by now to make sure that within a short time there will be another job open for a well trained Tory at Brudenell, Ont.

HON. MR. FOSTER'S STRANGE LOGIC.

Hon. Geo. E. Foster on his return from Japan, where he did nothing but enjoy a splendid trip at the country's expense, gave out some interesting interviews. Hon. Mr. Foster, as Minister of Trade and Commerce, stated that many of the people in Japan were so poor that they could not afford to eat even the rice they grew. Therefore, said Hon. Mr. Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce, there should be a great opening for Canadian wheat and flour in Japan, to supply food for these people who could not afford to eat their own rice. The cares of office as Canada's general travelling agent must be playing strange tricks with Hon. Mr. Foster's once logical brain.

First Shipment of New Wheat.

PORT ARTHUR, Sept. 9. — The steamer Doric, of the Northern Navigation Co., the first to carry grain from the 1913 crop down the lakes, cleared with 15,000 bushels of new wheat for James Richardson & Son, Goderich, from the Canadian Northern Elevator yesterday.

"Well, all I wanter say is, I hopes as 'ow they'll give me the benefit of the doubt," replied the prisoner despondently.

The jury considered their verdict. They were no little time over it.

"Can I assist you in any way, gentlemen?" said the judge, as last becoming impatient.

"We are almost agreed, me lad," said the foreman, "but we can't quite understand what the doubt is the prisoner wishes us to give him the benefit of." —London Answers.

Curious Marriage Custom.

Among the islanders of Jersey there is a very curious but pretty marriage custom. As soon as the ceremony is over and when the happy couple are entering into occupation of their house the large granite slab over the porch is inscribed with the initials of the bride and bridegroom, and between the two a rough representation of two hearts is entwined, the whole thus forming a marriage certificate for all the world to see. It is said that should the couple by any chance be one day divorced the hearts are pierced through by an arrow, which is cut into them.

Western Towns Not Bad

The recent reports, published east, of a wide open Fort George and the attempt to establish a red-light district are severely criticized by many in the colonization of the north. George J. Hammond, one of the best posted men on the development of the Province, cally:

"From the sensational reports have been published, especially in Eastern papers, the impression that Fort George and the towns of Central British Columbia are wide open and wild and woolly; matter of fact, the citizens of the interior are just as law-abiding as those of any other section of the Province. Of course, in a new and big distances, that is just being to civilization, where there are bands of men employed in construction, the same conditions can be expected as in the older stricts.

HUGE DREDGE FINISHED.

Draft for Deepening Port Nelson Harbor a Wonderful Boat.

An important step towards the fulfilment of the Dominion Government's great plans for the creation of a deep water harbor at Port Nelson, on big Hudson Bay, was the departure from Toronto recently of the biggest and strongest steel hydraulic dredge of its kind ever built in Canada, the Port Nelson.

The new vessel, the contract price of which was $270,000, was built at the yards of the Polson Iron Works here, and the whole undertaking from start to finish was accomplished in exactly a hundred days. This probably establishes a Canadian record for the building of a vessel of such size.

While the finishing touches were being made to the boat a party of about fifty shipping men and marine engineers inspected the vessel at the invitation of the Polson Company. These men afterwards stated that the new steel dredge more than came up to expectations.

“We have had night and day gangs or workers engaged on the construction of the dredge twenty-four hours a day and without a let up in order to bring it to completion within the one hundred days,” said Manager A.

Brother and Sister Disagree on a Question of Hills.

John (to his sister Sue, who has been visiting with her beau)—Did you have a pleasant trip, sis, dear?

Sue (to her brother John)—Oh, it was just lovely! And we went over mountains—just up one hill and down another, for ever such a distance.

“You went how?”

“Up one hill and down another.”

“Did you have an airship along?”

“Of course not, you silly!”

“Then how did you go up one hill and down another?”

“In the auto on a perfectly lovely road. The hills were not so high that you would have to fly.”

“What you mean, sis, dear, is that you went down one hill and up another—not up one hill and down another.”

“Don’t act silly! How could we get to the top of a hill to go down a hill if we didn’t go up first? We certainly went up one hill and down another, just as I said.”

“You certainly did not. You went down one hill and up another, just as I am telling you. You may have gone up one hill and down that same hill, and then you went up another hill and down that same hill. You see, sis, dear, before you could go up one hill and down another hill altogether you would have to have an airship to fly from the top of this first hill to the top of that other hill, and you admit that?”

But Sue did not wait to hear the rest—Lippincott's.

Why He Wears Glasses.

It happened in the park one Sunday morning. Todd and Edgeley were sitting there together, discussing, needless to say, the eternal and feminine question.

“Yes,” said Todd. “I quite agree with you; the way women dress nowadays is positively absurd.”

“It’s worse than that,” added Edgeley. “What’s more, in nine cases out of ten, their men folk are to blame.”

Todd sighed.

“I suppose that is so,” he remarked.

“Yes. Look at that woman coming toward us now. I’ll bet you anything you like that her husband tells her she looks positively charming when she goes out in that outrageous get-up, just because he hasn’t the pluck to say the truth, to laugh at her, to—”

But Todd had risen to his feet and, hat in hand, a happy smile upon his face, was awaiting the lady thus referred to. The lady was Edgeley’s wife—London Answers.

I feel better than I have for years and tell everybody what the Compound has done for me. I believe I would not be living to-day but for that.”—Mrs. HETTIE GREENSTREET, Nebo, Illinois.

CURIOS ALASKAN BIRDS.

Male Ptarmigans Woo In Two Tongues and Bully Their Mates.

The ptarmigan, an Alaskan bird, is a wonderful imitator of man, if Belmore Browne, who contributes an article on Alaskan game to Outing, is to be believed. To begin with, the author finds that the ptarmigan is a linguist of no mean ability. The male does his wooing in mixed French and English:

“A pleasing side of their mating is the habit of the males of uttering their call while on the wing. They commence with a guttural cackle, which they utter faster and faster until they alight, when they end their song by repeating slowly a call that sounds like ged-up, ged-up, ged-up, ged-up, or parlez vous? parlez vous? parlez vous? as they strut proudly about.”

In addition to singing in two languages, the ptarmigan conducts his personal and domestic affairs in approved fashion. Could not the following observation apply to human beings as well as to this remarkable bird:

“The males fight constantly, and the hens seem to enjoy these battles and sit about clucking among themselves.

afterwards stated that the new steel dredge more than came up to expecta- tions.

"We have had night and day gangs or workers engaged on the construc- tion of the dredge twenty-four hours a day and without a let up in order to bring it to completion within the one hundred days," said Manager A. J. Jefferies.

The inspection was made with Wm. Newman, works manager of the Pol- son Iron Works, who furnished the designs from which the vessel was built, acting as the guide.

Completely equipped, the dredge will weigh 1,200 tons, and is a double-decked structure. It is 180 by 43 feet with a moulded depth of 11 feet, and a draught of 6½ feet, is steel through- out and fitted with five bulkheads dividing it into six watertight compartments.

A 24-inch suction pipe is located in the forward end of the hold, directly connected with a 14 by 22 by 36 by 21-inch triple expansion engine, ob- taining steam from two 13 by 12 feet Scotch boilers, also located in the hold to the engines.

The operation of the dredge is out of the ordinary, because it is not of the stern pivot type. Two steam capstans will be located at the stern, and one at the bow, and by means of anchors located some distance each side of the vessel, at both front and stern, the dredge will be moved from side to side bodily, the dredge end of the discharge pipe moving with it. The cutter and suction arm at the front will be raised and lowered by a winch engine in the centre of the vessel. All the control of the suction, cutters and winch machinery will be from a central point at the rear in an operating room, on the upper deck.

An important feature of the dredge is a complete machine shop, equipped with lathes, planer, drills, etc., in a room in the hold of the stern. In addition, there is a compressed air unit with a supply of air tools, and a small brass furnace for the production of small brass castings. This will make the dredge self-contained in the event of breakdown far away from supplies.

Both sides of the main deck at the front of the engine room are divided off into cabins for the officers and crew, and the central part of the main deck at the front forms a saloon. A crew of 35 will be carried.

The dredge, while operating for the most part in fresh water, has been given salt water equipment through- out. This includes copper piping and a fresh water tank of 80 tons capacity. The coal capacity is 250 tons.

The dredge is making the trip from Toronto to Hudson Bay by way of the St. Lawrence River, being of a suitable size to pass through the locks, and around the Labrador coast. It will be towed all the way. Temporary rudders on each side of the stern will be added for the trip. The dredge is provided with 600 feet of 1½ inch stud link chain, with a three-ton anchor. There is also a sea anchor in case it is necessary for the tug to cast the dredge adrift at sea.

An Exaggerated Report.

Lindstrom—I hear that Billums turned all his property into bonds, disinherited his son, who married a chambermaid, and left everything to a college.

Regularity of the bowels is an absolute necessity for good health. Unless the waste matter from the food which collects there is got rid of at least once a day, it decays and poisons the whole body, causing biliousness, indigestion and sick headaches. Salts and other harsh mineral purgatives irritate the delicate lining of the bowels. personal and domestic affairs in ap- proved fashion. Could not the following observation apply to human beings as well as to this remarkable bird:

"The males fight constantly, and the hens seem to enjoy these battles and sit about clucking among themselves.

"But once a hen has decided on a mate she comes into her own share of troubles and is beaten and bullied by the mate she has promised to love and obey."

Inexpensive Monotony.

"When I got the order to design a big wholesale house for a firm that has stores in six cities I was elated," said an architect. "I'll plan a building that is bound to be satisfactory," I said to myself, "and then they will give me the commission for those new stores they expect to put up in those other five cities.

"Well, I did turn out a splendid store, a store that was admired by everybody in the wholesale trade. My patrons were pleased, too, but instead of giving me an order for those other buildings they simply used the same plans over again and built all their houses alike. That's what I call playing a low down trick on a fellow!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

One Kind of Fame.

Authorities who have in charge some of England's ancient treasures try to discourage the habit of carving initials on these relics. A fine of $15 was recently imposed on a man who had chipped his name in letters six inches high on one of the stones in the "Druids' Circle" near Keswick. Close to the giant stone globe at Swanage a special slab is provided for the harmless reception of the names of all who are addicted to this self advertisement. On popular Alpine summits it is customary for names to be left on cards in emptied wine bottles.

Varying the Old Story.

"Gerald, have I ever given you reason to think I would marry you?"

"No, Gwendolen; you never have, and if you don't want me to bother you any more I won't. Just give me my regular good night kiss and I'll go."—Chicago Tribune.

Inquisitive.

"Nell—I declare! That woman finds out everything. I never knew any one so inquisitive. Belle—That's right. I believe she would even pump an organ."—Philadelphia Record.

EAST YORK BY-ELECTION.

"I couldn't arouse any enthusiasm" is the admission made by George Henry the new member for East York elected on September 8th by a majority one hundred less than that secured by the Conservative party two years ago. Mr. Henry might also have added that Hon. Messrs. Lucas, Pyne and Duff although they addressed a long series of meetings, were unable to arouse any enthusiasm either, and could not prevent a reduction in the Conservative majority.

The Liberals, though handicapped seriously by the absence of their leader, Mr. N. W. Rowell who was in Europe, polled a good vote and have been heartened considerably by the results.

By-elections in this Province invariably go to the party in power and if the Conservatives with all their advantages and with a particularly good opportunity to secure a snap verdict could not do any better than lose a part of their majority it looks as if the Liberal optimism of to-day is fully justified.

The results were as follows: Henry, (Conservative) 1774; Chamberlain, (Liberal) 1158; Majority for Henry, 616; Conservative majority in 1911, 782.

G.T.R. Train Wreck.

On Thursday morning two freight trains were in a mix up bridge and embankment at the end of Dundas street. A freight moving down the grade from the pitched into another freight train moving off the bridge. The freight had stopped to take water was just moving ahead when the second freight came along. Cars and the caboose of the first train were thrown off the track and smashed. The caboose was run into kindling wood, a coal car ran into the bridge onto the road and a car and four box cars threw the embankment on the east. The engine, No. 187, was badly dented, but remained on the track. Both tracks were strewn with wreckage for quite a distance. All cars were empty. The crews of the trains escaped without injury. A coal car thrown over on the road.

GOD WILL LAUGH AT HUMAN PRIDE

An Old Prophecy About to be Fulfilled, Says Pastor Russell.

It Has a Double Application—It Applied to Jesus Personally, but Also to the Body of Christ, the Church—
The Kings of the Earth—The Rulers Amongst God's People—
Their Coalition Vain—God Will
Laugh at Them—Jesus Will Deride
Them—The Breaking as a Potter's Vessel Will Follow—Only Those Who Put Their Trust in Him Will Be Blessed.

PASTOR RUSSELL

On the Atlantic,
Sept. 7.—Pastor
Russell's text today was, "He that sitteth in the Heavens shall laugh;
the Lord shall have them in derision."
—Psalm 2: 4.

The vast ocean,
on which this stately ship is but a toy, reminds me both of God's mercy, like the wideness of the sea," and also of the vastness of
Divine Power and human insignificance, said Pastor Russell. Humanity may justly feel encouraged by its progress during the past century.

Steel ships, a thousand feet long, carrying thousands of passengers, have replaced the wooden dories of a century ago. Not only have the oceans been underlaid with cables, but this majestic steamer is outfitted with a wireless system of telegraphy, by which she is continually in touch with sister vessels and the world. This is only one of many avenues of progress.

God's people, counselled by their Father's Word, see that God is behind the wonderful developments of our day; for we are living "in the day of His preparation" (Nahum 2: 3) for Mes-siah's Kingdom. They perceive that God is gradually lifting the veil of ignorance and superstition; and that according to His promise men are now seeing out of obscurity.

"Kings of Earth Set Themselves."

"The kings of earth," in a broader sense, include financial kings, captains of industry and political chieftains.
These wise men of the world grasp the situation only in part. They perceive the riches and blessings rolling in upon the world through invention, and are fortifying themselves in luxury and power. Thus have they set themselves.

Moreover, "the rulers" of the people—
special people, professedly God's people—ecclesiastical rulers and princes—are affiliated with them. "Together they take counsel." Their next step will be to put their counsels into practice.

"Let Us Break Their Bands."

For centuries kings and governments have been more or less restrained by the people, guided by the Bible and its spirit of liberty. The new conditions of to-day, however, have evaded many restraints. So the people are intent upon making new regulations to cope with the Trusts and the wealth of financial kings and with the great power of political kings.

Through the Bible, the stronghold of liberty, the masses have learned that rich and poor must all eventually stand before the Judgment Seat, and be judged by one Law. This Bible por-

THE MARKETS

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—Corn today rose to a new high price for the season in the December option and narrowly missed a new high level in other futures. Inadequacy of relief from drought and heat was largely responsible. The close, the easy, showed an advance of 3 1/2 c to 1 1/2 c to 1 1/4 c net. Other leading cereals, too, made gains—wheat 3 1/2 c to 3 1/4 c to 3 1/2 c, and cotton 4 c to 4 1/2 c to 4 1/2 c. In provisions, the outcome varied from 5 c decline to 17 1/2 c advance.

The Liverpool market closed 5 d to 3 1/2 d lower on wheat, and 1/2 d lower on corn.

teen factories offered 653 packages of butter. Six buyers were present. Ruling price for butter was 25 1/2 c. All sold except two factories.

CATTLE MARKETS

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

MONTREAL, Sept. 8.—At the Montreal
Stock Yards, West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ended
September 6 were 2100 cattle, 3500 sheep and lambs, 2300 hogs and 1000 calves, while the offerings on the market this morning for sale were 1600 cattle, 2700 sheep and lambs, 1400 hogs and 800 calves.

There was a much better feeling in the market for cattle today and prices in some cases ruled higher. The supply of really choice steers was limited and only odd small lots sold at $6.75 to $7, but there was an ample supply of good steers, which brought $6.25 to $6.40 per cwt. in full carloads. Demand for common stock for shipment was active and prices for such were 95c per cwt. higher at $8.50 to

Up to the end of the first week in September no frost has been recorded in Central or Southern Manitoba, and probably the records of a generation cannot parallel this. A curious resulting phenomenon is the clouds of insect life which have bred unchecked. This especially applied to mosquito, that noisy pest whose brief season of destruction generally wanes with July, disappearing with the first frosts in mid-August. But now they are as bad as on a long June evening. Dairy men complain that their milk output is falling off very appreciably, their herds being too distracted to chew the cud complacently, a process essential to the full pail. Mosquitoes have invaded down town office buildings, and every warm day brings another generation into play. With the crops safe a touch of frost will not be unwelcome.

"What did they say?"

"They didn't say anything. We had not been introduced. I saw them as they went past."

upon making new regulations to cope with the Trusts and the wealth of financial kings and with the great power of political kings.

Through the Bible, the stronghold of liberty, the masses have learned that rich and poor must all eventually stand before the Judgment Seat, and be judged by one Law. This Bible portrays the Divine Plan of Restitution—the rolling away of the curse of death, through Messiah's Kingdom, shortly to be inaugurated in a great Time of Trouble.

The Bible spirit of liberty is the Divine restraint, the "bands" and "cords" of our context. What form opposition will assume toward the Bible is difficult to detail in advance.

Jesus the Head, the Church His Body.

The Lord's Anointed is The Christ of glory. This prophecy was fulfilled respecting Jesus when Pilate and Herod took counsel with the chief priests, scribes and Pharisees. The religious rulers were the prime movers in the opposition against Jehovah and His anointed Son. They knew not what they did, St. Paul declares. They took counsel against Jesus, realizing that His influence was against their own false expectations respecting Messiah's Kingdom.

We should expect shortly the complete fulfillment of this prophecy. Opposition will arise against the Lord and His representatives and mouthpieces. The federated religious interests, with cherished plans opposed to the Truth, will denounce it as Caiaphas denounced Jesus. We may expect that the last saintly members of the Body of Jesus will suffer similarly "for the good of the cause," as seen by modern scribes and Pharisees.

God in Heaven Shall Laugh.

Jesus' enemies supposed that their projects would flourish. But God laughed at them. Under Divine disfavor they entered into the time of trouble which culminated in the complete overthrow of their polity. Here we expect the same.

The plans of kings and rulers will be measurably carried out. (V. I.) The irreligious will be in tumult, not knowing of the Messianic Kingdom. The people (nominal Christendom) will imagine a vain thing—either that they can bring the Kingdom, or that it is here, but waiting until a few millions are poured into the missionary treasury.

The picture of God's laughing at poor human pride is forcible. The failure that will come to the professed people of God and the world will be a great lesson in humility. The absurd position would make all laugh, if they realize that without Divine interposition God's will cannot be done on earth as it is in Heaven.

Demand for common stock for shipment was active and prices for such were 25c per cwt. higher at $3.50 to $3.75, while there was also a good demand for store cattle at $5 to $5.25 per cwt. Trade on the whole was active.

A feature of the small meat trade was the demand from American buyers for grass fed calves and the tone of the market in consequence was stronger at an advance of 1/4c per pound, with sales at 3 1/2 to 4c per pound. There was no change in the condition of the market for sheep and lambs, prices being steady under a good demand from local buyers, and as supplies were fairly large an active trade was done. A weaker feeling prevailed in the market for hogs, and prices ruled 20 to 25c per cwt. lower than this day week. The demand from packers was good and sales of selected lots were made at $10.25 to $10.40; rough, at $10 to $10.15; sows, at $8.25 to $8.40, and tags, at $ to $4.50 per cwt.; weighed off cars.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Sept. 9.—Before Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, leader of the British militant suffragists, can be admitted to the United States in October, the time set in the latest announcements for her coming, the immigration authorities will decide whether any of the acts for which she has been imprisoned in England constitute moral turpitude within the meaning of the law and make her an undesirable alien.

She will be detained at whatever port she lands, but whether eventually she may be permitted to enter cannot be foretold.

A POETESS' TOMB.

Body of Pauline Johnson is laid in City Park.

At the foot of a single tall silver birch tree in Stanley Park, Vancouver, B.C., repose the ashes of Pauline Johnson. Resting over the spot is a small boulder, and enclosing a small extent of ground on three sides is a rough wooden guard attached to the birch and to a huge cedar log sheltering the north side.

This quiet resting place lies at the curve of the main road and another leading to Siwash Rock. It is scarcely discernable to the passer-by, but there is an entrance from either road, and some ten feet from each, through the luxuriant growth of forest giants of cedar and fir, where the underwood has been cleared, one comes to the flower-wreathed boulder.

Fallen cedar logs, moss-grown a century ago, upturned stumps, from out of which other great trees thrust their tangle of uncovered roots into the rich soil, lie here and there as nature or nature's children, the Indians, left them. Mosses, and clusters of ferns, tall and broad of front, and peering out of the dark green of their leaves, line and outline this sacred chapel of the forest, the floor of which is nature's carpet of earth and crumbling cedar wood; the dome a riot of branches of the "whispering cedars" the quiet sleeper loved and immortalized in verse.

It is as if one enters a cathedral—a holy of holies a sanctuary of the people. Many motor cars halt close by, and as their occupants ascend the slight rise to the entrance, laughter and jest cease as they pass in; children hush their voices; and pedestrians come quietly into the sacred precinct, the men uncovering as they enter.

Within sight of Siwash Rock, famous for centuries in Indian lore, and to which Pauline Johnson has given an added touch of historic romance in that legend which the great Chief of the Capilano related to her, she sleeps, this Indian girl who came from the land of the rising sun to rest at the gate of "the rose-gold westland." A few yards to the west of the tomb the blue waters of the Pacific lash, or gently lap in lazy melody, the rocky shore. To the near north are piled the everlasting mountains, their heads white with the eternal snows. Filmy white and misty vapory grey clouds hang low like cobwebs above their emerald slopes, emerald foliated as they near the sea and swathed in velvet-soft verdure.

The hum, the rush of the great city does not reach this peaceful nook. Ships sail out of the harbor to the Orient, and ships come slowly in from those distant lands, silently slipping to and fro within close, hailing distance of Pauline Johnson's home port.

The mountains, the sea, the forest, the things she loved—all nature lies round and about where sleeps this daughter of Canada, this child of the redman, this sweet songstress of the people; whose spirit she reminded us would ever hover near—just across the Great Divide.

Interesting, indeed, was the ceremony which took place recently near Brantford when Miss Augusta Gilkinson was adopted by the chiefs of the Six Nations Indians and was given an Indian name, after presenting to the Six Nation Council an enlarged photograph of her father, who was for many years the superintendent of the Six Nations. Miss Gilkinson's Indian name is Go-in-wih-sas, meaning "one who makes a research." The appropriateness of this is evident when it is known that Miss Gilkinson, with Mrs. Brown, the authoress of "The Lady of the

COUNTY OF LENNOX AND ADDINGTON

Treasurer's Sale of Lands for Taxes.

COUNTY OF

LENNOX AND ADDINGTON

TO WIT:

Lennox and Addington, bearing date the 31st day of July, A. D. 1913, and to me directed, commanding me to levy upon the lands mentioned in the following list for arrears of taxes due thereon and the costs as therein set forth.

I hereby give notice that unless the said arrears and costs are sooner paid I shall proceed to sell the said lands, or so much thereof as may be necessary for the aforesaid taxes and costs, at the Court House, in the Town of Napanee, by Public Auction, on MONDAY, THE 24th DAY OF NOVEMBER, AND THE FOLLOWING DAY, IF NECESSARY, in the present year of A. D., 1913, beginning at the hour of ten o'clock in the forenoon, and in compliance with the provisions of the Assessment Act.

The public will please remember that this is a strictly CASH sale. Private cheques will not be accepted in settlement unless marked by the bank upon which they are drawn.

CHAPTER II.

WHEELER BRAND gazed at the girl, and above his own misery rose his sympathy and thought for her, whom he longed to comfort, for the girl of his choice, whom duty said he must cause to suffer. He yearned to take her in his arms and wipe away the tears, but he knew that she would repulse him. He throbbed with the desire to prove to her his love by assuring her that the attack on her father was ended—but his duty whispered, "No."

And to himself he repeated the "No." For he must go on, and she must endure, and the judge must pay the price.

The voice of an outraged people had spoken through the pen of Wheeler Brand, and he was one of those men strong enough to refuse to take the price of silence.

He led the girl he loved to a chair, even as she sobbed and whispered, "Wheeler, Wheeler, Wheeler," endearingly from her heart's depths. Brand looked down on her with a world of sadness in his eyes. He well knew, and the world would soon know, that those who sit in the high places must pay the penalty for sin, even as the lowliest among us who more blindly goes astray.

Judith Bartelmy had been long enough in society to learn the art of the control and the concealment of emotions under many trying circumstances. Probably in any other situation than in one where her father and the man she loved were so deeply concerned, as in the present, she would have been able to retain a larger degree of self composure. Several minutes passed before she was able to speak in evenly balanced tones.

"Wheeler," she finally said, "if any one had told me that you would or could do what you have done against my father, against my family"—her voice began to break again—"against me, I would not have believed it. And you have not told me that you will cease your attack."

Brand thought to palliate her. He seated himself on a corner of the managing editor's desk and bent toward her as she sat in a chair near him.

"Now, Judith, let me try to explain," he said entreatingly. "I think I can make you understand. You see, the Lansing Iron company owned a lot of valuable properties—ore ranges, machinery, railroad trackage, etc. If it had been managed halfway it would now be a wealth producing business, but some of our speculators downtown were trying to get hold of it to

"You don't mean to do that?" he cried in amazement.

"I most certainly do!"

He was almost frantic. He grasped her hand.

"I won't let you mean it. I can't let you go without your ring. You may be Judge Bartelmy's daughter, but you are going to be my wife. You've worn my ring for a month, and you must wear it forever!"

The girl passed his passionate appeal by without heeding it. She tossed back her pretty head defiantly, snatched the ring from her finger and threw it on the managing editor's desk.

"I'll not wear it again," she exclaimed resolutely, "unless—until you come to your senses." So expressing herself, she stalked majestically across the room.

"Judith!" called Brand in desperation, fearing that she was about to leave him.

"Will you do what I ask?" she queried imperiously.

"I cannot," he answered simply.

The judge's daughter tossed her head independently, caught her skirt in her hand, turned her back swiftly on Brand and walked indignantly from the room.

Wheeler Brand, dazed, heartsick and discouraged and torn by the emotions that welled within him, leaned helplessly against the desk. After all, he reasoned, what did it all matter? There were lots of evil men in the world, always had been, always would be. What harm would it do if one dishonest judge were allowed to go unmolested, even if he happened to be a United States judge? Surely there were other dishonest judges, and he could not drive all of them off the bench—no, indeed. And, moreover, this thankless task he had shouldered would if he succeeded rob him of the girl he loved. It would rob him of the love of the girl who loved him.

Then the thought of the enthusiasm that had buoyed him as he wrote the story that had exposed Judge Bartelmy came to him and clung to him. The inspiration in doing a strong man's work for the public good enthused the spirit of Wheeler Brand, captured his soul. The steady light burned once more in his eyes. He shook himself together—fastened his old time grip on himself. As for Judith, he would do his duty, and he would win her yet.

When the managing editor of the Advance re-entered his office and walked briskly toward his desk he found Wheeler Brand looking eagerly over a notebook which, quite unknown to McHenry, contained the data for an article on the Lansing Iron case even more damaging to Judge Bartelmy than the one already printed.

"Well, did you settle it?" asked McHenry.

Brand looked up and started toward the door.

"Yes, sir," he answered, and he was gone.

At this juncture Downs, the city editor, came into the managing editor's room. He addressed McHenry rapidly.

"Water main burst on Morton street; drowned seven dago kids in the basement of a tenement; mothers, scrub-women, gone out to work and locked them in; water rising." He drew close to the desk. "Children, climbing stairs to escape, found huddled in each other's arms on top step, drowned! All but the youngest hanging on to a string of beads; must have died praying!"

himself at the right of McHenry's desk.

"McHenry," began Dupuy decidedly,

Mr. Dupuy was downstairs.

"somebody on your paper has been making bad breaks lately, particularly the one this morning."

"What one this morning?"

"The Judge Bartelmy story, of course."

"Help!" sang out McHenry. "I've been getting that all day."

"It's no joke, McHenry," snapped Dupuy.

"It was a mistake," responded the managing editor.

"Mistake! Who was responsible for it?" leaning forward.

"Oh, it just slipped through in the rush."

"Tell that to the marines," retorted Dupuy sarcastically. He paused. "Who slipped it through?"

There was another pause.

McHenry began to assert himself.

"Excuse me, Dupuy," he asked pointedly. "But how does the Bartelmy story affect you?"

"Some of my clients have a very high regard for the judge. Your story grossly misrepresents him."

"Yes, I suppose so."

"This growing tendency to bring our judiciary into disrepute is a dangerous symptom of the unrest beneath the surface," spoke Dupuy pompously. "The federal bench is the ultimate bulwark."

McHenry laughed.

"Oh, capital in distress! Yes, I know all about that."

Dupuy stirred indignantly.

"There was no occasion for that remark," he retorted tartly.

McHenry saw that Dupuy was very much in earnest, and the management of the Advance, as he had previously known it—representatives of an insurance company—would have desired to gratify the wishes of the powerful Dupuy's words and demands.

"Oh, I can't say as to that."

"About $30,000 worth, wasn't it?"

"Yes, I should think so," said McHenry.

"Well, there's the answer," said Dupuy triumphantly. "As a man of business, McHenry, if you are friendly to my clients, why, you hardly expect them to be friendly to you, and I shall explain to the proprietor of the Advance, Mr. McHenry, the reasons for the sudden drop in advertising. He is a rich man, he probably will not like to know he is in the way of losing a good deal of money to further a radical change which he probably wants. Come, McHenry, for your own sake be reasonable. Who wrote the Surely you are not going to be a mere reporter in a matter so important to our interests. Who was it?" McHenry surrendered.

"A young fellow named V. Brand."

Dupuy rose and towered above McHenry as he sat at his desk.

"I thought so. I only wanted to make sure," he said. "He's a curious type. Comes from good people, but ambitious to get into the lime-light by stirring up the Thought he might have learned by now, but it seems he hasn't, he never will; these fanatics never change."

"We consider him the best gator in town," warmly, in private.

"He's entirely too zealous. I can't catch me?" asked Dupuy, leaning on McHenry and gazing significant into his eyes.

The managing editor caught his meaning and stared at him blankly.

"You don't mean— Dupuy smiled coldly.

"Yes—I mean—get rid of him."

CHAPTER III.

THE managing editor again to weigh just what McHenry's demand of him was. He directed his gaze fixedly, and a long pause ensued after the lawyer lobbyist's demand that Wheeler Brand be charged from the Advance.

Dupuy returned to McHenry's office and his discerning eye and braced him to read the workings of McHenry's mind. He felt instinctively as he glared at McHenry that the managing editor "on the make" during the period of the insurance company's ownership there had no doubt that the decision of the managing editor of the Advance had been in favor of Dupuy's demand for the discharge of V. Brand. And the lawyer, like McHenry, knew nothing of the new owner who would change the attitude of the paper.

Dupuy was right in his estimate of McHenry's weakness. The lawyer was playing in rare form, to discover in his opponent who dared not stand to his right. He well knew that he could not find the same sort of man of importance in many newspapers of the land. Well, he knew "the power of the press" throughout all America, for he learned at bitter cost that it was the foe of all the Ed Dupuys and all that employed them to serve ends.

Lansing Iron company owned a lot of valuable properties—ore ranges, machinery, railroad trackage, etc. If it had been managed halfway it would now be a wealth producing business, but some of our speculators downtown were trying to get hold of it to gamble with. They wanted to sink it, as the saying is, by watering it. They did have a stock market battle or two, which profited nobody but the lawyers on both sides. But they finally got it by juggling it into a receivership, which they never could have done if a United States judge had not been willing to exceed his functions. That judge was your father.

"Since the works shut down," he went on strongly, "the men are out of employment, and the gamblers have got rich because the company's gone broke. That's just what happened, and that's all I said."

"But it wasn't your facts, I tell you. It was your insinuation that was false."

"Not insinuation—interpretation."

"But it wasn't true—it wasn't true."

"Oh, yes, it was true, and more."

Judith verged on the hysterical again.

"If you loved me as you pretend to, no matter if you thought it true or not, you could not have written that article."

"Can't you see that I wasn't writing about your father, but about a United States judge who—"

She moved farther away from him.

"That's splitting hairs, Wheeler."

He walked to her side.

"Judith, please—please don't let's quarrel about this."

The girl turned to him impulsively.

"Oh, Wheeler, we were on the verge of it, weren't we?" He cast his arms around her. "You're sorry, aren't you?" She looked fondly into his face. "And you will take back that article, won't you?"

"You mustn't ask me to do that; I can't," looking at her earnestly.

"You can't?"

"No."

Judith drew away from him a step or two. She surveyed him coldly.

"Wheeler, I came here thinking only of my father, but I suddenly find myself facing a much more serious question—not what kind of a man he is, but what kind of a man are you."

Brand was deeply cut by her manner and her intonation.

"Judith, if you only knew the truth, all of it, things I can't tell you, you'd be with me heart and soul in what I'm trying to do."

He caught her in his arms again.

"Whatever I've done or whatever I may do I love you," he insisted passionately.

Judith showed equal fervor as she said:

"And you're more to me than my father, but for my sake you mustn't work against him. How could we ever be happy together if you did? You'll do this for me, Wheeler, just this? I want you to carry out your ideals and live up to your high purposes in every other way, but you must not attack him. Promise me that you'll never do it again. Won't you promise me that? And you'll retract that article you had this morning. You'll do this for me, just this?"

"Judith—it's the truth—and, knowing that, would you have me retract it?"

"Yes."

"I can't."

Judith began to take off the engagement ring Brand had given her.

women, gone out to work and locked them in; water rising." He drew close to the desk. "Children, climbing stairs to escape, found buddled in each other's arms on top step, drowned! All but the youngest hanging on to a string of beads; must have died praying!"

The managing editor's face immediately lightened, and he pounded his desk enthusiastically.

"Good! Good! By glory, that's a dandy! That saves our lives! Now we'll have a paper tomorrow! We'll go the limit on this. Did you send a photograph?"

"Yes, sir, I did."

McHenry seized the office telephone.

"Night editor! Oh, hello! Cut three columns more out of those shavings. We've got a live one. Seven dago kids drowned. First time they ever saw water in their lives. Run three columns!" He hung up the receiver and turned to the city editor.

"Put in three leads and make it stick out like a sore thumb. And, say, put in a black faced bulletin saying the Advance will receive subscriptions for their families."

Durkin entered with a bundle of proofs.

"And, say, Downs," added McHenry, "print in bold faced type that the Advance will start the subscription with $100."

"Mr. Dupuy is downstairs," announced Durkin.

The managing editor could not suppress a sour expression which crept across his face. "Dupuy, eh?" he grunted half audibly. "Wonder what he wants around here now? He's a regular buttinski!"

McHenry knew Dupuy in a business way, knew he was counsel for several of the big mercantile establishments which advertised in the Advance and that the lawyer had represented various corporations at the state capital. "Well, I suppose I'll have to see him," he finally resolved. "Show Mr. Dupuy in," he called to the boy.

"Good evening," was Dupuy's greeting to McHenry as he entered and placed his overcoat on a chair.

"Good evening, Mr. Dupuy. What can I do for you?" The visitor seated much in earnest, and the management of the Advance, as he had previously known it—representatives of an insurance company—would have desired to gratify the wishes of the powerful newspapers of the land. Well, he knew "the power of the throughout all America, for learned at bitter cost that it's a foe of all the Ed Dupuys and a that employed them to serve ends.

Finally McHenry spoke in answer to Dupuy's demand.

"Let us give Brand one chance!" protested McHenry. "him on baseball or water front now."

"I will be candid with you. instructed to make an exam somebody for this morning's Perhaps, though, a good haul might do for this time. Call now. It's his last chance."

A boy entered.

"Ask Mr. Brand to step in."

"I'd rather take a licking this," protested McHenry.

Dupuy was unsympathetic.

"Well, he's only got him that!" he snorted.

Wheeler Brand came in.

"Mr. Brand," began the managing editor, "there is a kick being in the Bartelmy story of this morning."

"Yes, sir; I suppose so." Brand sat up and saw Dupuy, and the relief face showed that he understood.

"I forward the kick to you, in it O. K.," said McHenry. "It words, the kick goes."

"Why, what?"

"This is a practical world," posed Dupuy.

Brand grew bitter, for well he the practices of Dupuy.

"Oh, yes; I know the patter—of live and let live. We must be careful before imputing motives to Mr. Dupuy? Does not the good you, 'Let him that is without sin you cast the first stone—at States judges.'"

"Wheeler, Wheeler," cried McHenry. "We only ask you in to talk calmly!"

"That man has hit me in the before," exclaimed Brand. "It's the first time that he has come in light."

"I desire to say that my client in Dupuy, like a great many of the—ah—subscribers—to this were disappointed at what they received to be an unwarrantable full of insinuations about one most distinguished members United States bench, and the merely as readers of the paper press the hope that nothing of this will occur again, in which cases are willing to overlook this no article entirely—to, in fact, merely as a mistake, a mistake without malice."

"You mean I am to have a chance to hold my job if I'll b from now on?" asked Brand.

Dupuy once more became composed.

"Such, I believe, is Mr. McElroy's decision," he announced calmly.

"You certainly have your game," cried Brand in menacing "to think you can muzzle me to week. I've paid more than that privilege of fighting you."

The lawyer turned quickly managing editor.

"You better let him go," McElroy suggested. "He's a crank." Wheeler Brand was amazed way in which McHenry, allowed to influence him.

"Does he give you orders?" he meaningly of the managing editor.

"Yes, my boy; he does, and I your resignation."

"It's no joke, McHenry."

Interests behind Dupuy. So far as the new owner was concerned, the managing editor could not tell what his attitude would be in the matter, but he had received no instructions as yet to change the policy of the paper. Plainly the course of wisdom, he reasoned, would be to act toward Dupuy as he had acted in the past, when the insurance company had insisted that the paper be operated on a purely commercial basis. Yes, he would deal carefully with Dupuy—that is, with Dupuy's clients.

"No offense meant," explained McHenry.

"Well, we'll have nothing more about Bartelmy. Will that satisfy your people?"

"Thank you, McHenry. That will be eminently satisfactory both to them and to me as their legal adviser."

"All right; that settles that."

"Oh, not quite!" said Dupuy, raising his hand warningly. "There's one more point. Who was responsible for the story?"

"Oh, let's pass that!"

But Dupuy could not be turned aside. McHenry had begun to give way to him, and the lawyer intended to follow up his advantage.

"Very well; it's up to you," he said. "But I want you to realize, whatever happens, there is no personal animosity in the matter."

"What do you mean by 'whatever happens'?" asked the managing editor quickly.

The visitor was a living picture of complacency.

"How much advertising did you get from our concern last year?"

The managing editor began to discern more clearly the hidden club in

The reporter was by no means daunted by his discharge.

"I'm sorry for you," he cried, inclining toward McHenry.

Dupuy laughed significantly.

"Reserve your sympathy for yourself, young man," he advised the young newspaper writer.

"Reserve your sympathy for Bartelmy; he'll need it before long," was his cutting retort.

"Oh! Is that so?" sneered Dupuy. "Go west and grow up with the country, for if you hang around here to hurt Bartelmy don't forget that criminal libel is punishable with arrest."

"Sorry, old man," spoke McHenry kindly. "If I didn't have a family I'd go west with you."

When Mrs. Nolan, Phyllis and Sylvester had departed in the wake of the boy who had answered McHenry's ring, Dupuy rose and made a signal to McHenry behind Nolan's back that he wanted to meet the owner. The managing editor beckoned him over. "Mr. Nolan," he said, inclining toward the proprietor of the Advance, "this is Mr. Dupuy."

Dupuy bowed, again trying to fix in his mind the occasion on which, somehow, somewhere in his busy past he had met Michael Nolan. He extended his hand, saying, "I am glad to meet you, Mr. Nolan."

The newspaper publisher pierced Dupuy with a glance which, to say the least, was searching. He crouched toward him and compressed his brows as though to render his sight more certain, more penetrating. He had half extended his own hand to grasp Dupuy's. Suddenly, with a half smothered oath, he drew it violently back.

"My God," he exclaimed, "it is Ed Dupuy!"

Advice to Consumptives.

The only safe course for a person suffering from consumption is to select a good physician and be guided in all things by that physician's advice.

If a new cure is discovered during your illness your doctor will know it. If the cure is genuine he will know that and be the first to insist on applying the new remedy to your case. If the so called cure is a fake his caution will save you from wasting valuable time and strength pursuing will-o'-the-wisps.

Meantime, while waiting on new discoveries, he will keep you on the commonplace but effective prescription of rest, plentiful diet and all the fresh air there is. This regime has cured tens of thousands of cases of tuberculosis and will cure hundreds of thousands more.—Chicago Journal.

Brand straightened up and, with a contemptuous expression on his face, started toward the door.

"You've got more heart than sense, McHenry," was the parting shot which he burred at the managing editor.

"Pretty tough on a reporter to fire him for 'scooping' the town on a big story," said the managing editor.

"Oh, pshaw!" grunted Dupuy.

A boy entered with a card. Dupuy crossed to a chair and picked up his overcoat.

The son, togged in the latest freshman effects in the line of sporty clothes and drawing on an unlighted cigarette, replied, "1909, 1910, 1911."

Mrs. Nolan pointed at a pile of papers lying on a small desk. "I don't see how you ever get time to read 'em all," she addressed McHenry.

"Oh, I read fifty or sixty a day. We've got to know what the other fellows are doing."

"That's just like me," she responded smoothly. "I always like to know what everybody else is doing, too," she went on. "I think what journalism needs is a soft feminine, refining influence. It seems you don't publish anything now but crime, divorces and people's troubles." She laughed.

"Mr. Nolan, sir," the lad announced, with an amusing grimace. "He's the new boss, and he's got a couple o' mitts on 'im like Jim Jeffries. Gee, but I'll bet Nolan is there with th' wallon, all right!"

Dupuy put his overcoat down on the chair. His luck was still holding good, he congratulated himself. Here was a chance to make the acquaintance of the new owner of the influential Advance, an opportunity to pave the way possibly to secure future favors from him for his clients when emergencies arose. Needless to say, emergencies frequently arose to disturb the peace of mind of the varieties of people who sought the versatile aid of Mr. Ed Dupuy. He turned to face McHenry and said:

"Oh, the new owner! I'd like to meet him. If you don't object I'll wait." Dupuy seated himself at the extreme left hand corner of the office close to the rack containing files of the daily papers. He took down a file and began to read. McHenry, laughing at the patent anxiousness of the lawyer to meet Nolan, put on his coat.

A heavy step was heard, and the bulky form of the new owner of the Advance stood before the managing editor.

"I am Mr. McHenry," explained the latter.

"I am Mike Nolan," the newcomer remarked bluntly.

At the sound of the big man's big voice Dupuy, whom Nolan had not noticed in the corner, stirred and turned his head to gain a better view of him. There was something familiar in the ring of that voice. There was something familiar in the features and the poise of Mr. Mike Nolan. Surely he had met him somewhere. He pondered and pondered and finally gave up the problem in disgust.

"This is a nice looking place you've got here," he remarked to McHenry.

"That you've got, sir."

A feminine voice from the outer hallway was heard to exclaim breathlessly, "I refuse to climb another step."

McHenry turned inquiringly, whereupon Nolan explained: "My family's just outside. I wanted them to see me take possession." His voice was tinged with pride. He stepped to the door. "Come in, mother," he called gayly. Mrs. Nolan, a tall, well proportioned blonde, attired in the costliest of imported garments, entered the managing editor's office with a pronounced flourish, followed by the two Nolan children, Sylvester and Phyllis—the son about twenty-two years old and the daughter probably a year or two younger. "Oh, mercy, them stairs!" exclaimed the mother, endeavoring to catch her breath. Nolan presented his wife and son to McHenry. Mrs. Nolan called to Phyllis to draw near. "This is my daughter, Phyllis," she said. "She went to Bryn Mawr." Phyllis and the managing editor exchanged greetings. "My son, Sylvester," went on the mother proudly, "went to Harvard."

"Oh, you wouldn't want to read every day that Mr. and Mrs. James Jones were living happily together. You're only interested when they're unhappy."

"Still I'd like to read once in awhile that somebody else was happy, at least for a little while."

It was McHenry's turn to laugh. "Would you like to look over the plant, Mrs. Nolan?" he asked.

The Psychological Moment.

Frances is only a little girl, but she has a quick mind and the gift of language that sometimes distinguishes children who associate much with their elders. The other day Frances came home to her mother with cheeks like roses and eyes like stars.

"Oh, mamma," she exclaimed, happily, "I've had the best luck this morning! I got downtown just at the psychological moment!"

"Did you, dear?" was mother's pleased inquiry. "And what happened?"

Said Frances solemnly: "I saw a parade."—Chicago Record-Herald.

NEW POTATO DISEASE.

Silver Scurf Is Spreading Rapidly. Infected Tubers Must Be Rejected.

A new disease, silver scurf (Spondylocladium atrovirens burz.), has recently been introduced from Europe and is spreading rapidly in our eastern states, says a recent bulletin of the United States department of agriculture.

This disease is marked by dark areas on the skin of the tuber, which on close examination may be seen to be spotted with fine black points. This fungus does not produce a decay of the potato, but after the skin is killed there is a rapid loss of moisture, and the tubers shrivel and take on a silvery appearance, greatly depreciating their market value.

This fungus is apparently not killed by seed disinfection; therefore all infected potatoes must be rejected.

USE ALL THE CORN.

Silo Makes Available Feeding Value of Stalk as Well as Ear.

By the use of the silo and harvesting the corn plant for silage the feeding value of the plant is increased from $10 to $12 per acre. It is estimated that 60 per cent of the feeding value of the corn plant is in the ear of corn and 40 per cent is in the stalk.

If a field of corn which would make forty bushels per acre is harvested in the usual way of gathering the corn and leaving the stalk stand we have harvested only 60 per cent of the crop. The forty bushels of corn at 50 cents per bushel are worth $20, but if the stalks have two-thirds the feeding value of the grain the stalks are worth from $10 to $12 or $15 per acre, depending upon the quality of the crop and the condition they are in when harvested for silage.

If the stalks are left in the field they have a feeding value of from $1 to $1.50 or $2.50 per acre. This decreased value of the cornstalk when left in the field is due to the fact that when the stalk is left standing it loses its moisture and the fiber becomes hard, woody and indigestible.

It is therefore evident that to obtain the maximum feeding value of the corn crop it should be harvested and made into silage and that the use of the silo will increase the feeding value of the corn plants from $10 to $12 per acre.—Roy C. Potts, Department of Dairy Husbandry, Oklahoma A. and M.

barrel. Now put on lid and slowly press into place, shaking the barrel in the meanwhile. The stores sell very excellent barrel binders or presses. But one can be rigged very quickly by using a plank or scantling with one end under a stud reaching to the shed plate and nailed temporarily in place. See cut. Be careful not to press the apples too hard.—Farm Journal.

Fertilize Your Orchard.

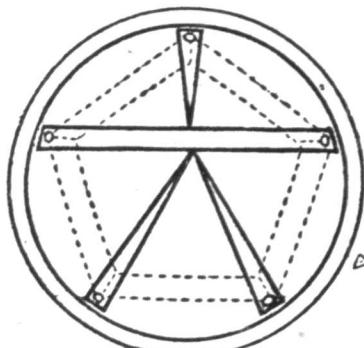

As neglected as the average farm orchard is in almost every particular it probably suffers worse from the lack of fertilization than from any other cause. It is indeed a rare case where the farmer or perhaps even the orchardist manures or fertilizes his orchard as thoroughly and as conscientiously as he does his corn and wheat ground, says the Farmer's Guide.

Kaffir as Good as Corn.

Kaffir is as good a feed as corn. Because farmers are learning this Kaffir has become one of the most important crops grown in Kansas today. The grain is valued highly as a feed for all classes of live stock. In feeding five bushels of Kaffir seed are considered as being equivalent to four bushels of shelled corn.

Directions For Making Necessary Part of Concrete or Tile Structure.

Should any one be thinking of building a concrete or tile silo the accompanying cut might help in building the scaffold. After the foundation wall is laid get five poles at least eight feet higher than you expect the silo to be. Set inside of the wall deep enough to hold poles in place. Lay

Heavy lines, 2 by 4's; dotted lines, boards to work on; five small circles indicate position of support poles.

SCAFFOLD INSIDE SILO.

[From National Stockman and Farmer.] the silo as high as you can from the ground; then take 2 by 4's or 2 by 6's and build frame for scaffold as shown in cut.

Leave plenty of room for poles to work easily; then floor as shown by dotted lines in cut. Attach a pulley to each pole and raise when ready. Then spike a piece under scaffold on pole. One scaffold does it all. The scaffold should have just play enough to let it slide up easily. Sometimes if it is too loose a wedge to hold it firm while at work should be put in.

The idea of having the poles longer than the silo is high is to get pulleys high enough for last raise.—National Stockman and Farmer.

WHAT'S INSIDE AN APPLE?

Structure of Fruit Is More Complex Than Is Generally Supposed.

The inside of an apple is to most people merely a delicious whitish pulp and a few brown seeds in a more or less edible core wrapped up in a prettily colored skin. The real structure of the apple is by no means so simple. A scientific examination shows it to be far more complex. The accompanying photograph shows a cross section of a Baldwin apple. It has been treated first with alcohol and then with cedar oil to make the structure of the different parts show up better in the photograph.

The outer part, marked A, which is the part generally considered the fruit, the part that is eaten, is really corresponding to the outer wood of a tree or the stem of a plant, while the real fruit is the part marked D, known scientifically as the carpel, the dark triangular marks in the middle of the photograph.

CROSS SECTION OF AN APPLE.

The dark spots, marked B, are the main arteries, of which there are ten, that carry the food through the network of veins seen in the outer section. This system of arteries and veins is entirely separate from that which feeds the fruit in the middle. The five sections marked C might be likened to five plums set down close together with a stem grown up around them (the fleshy part of the apple.) These the horticultural scientist now calls "drupes." The outer part, with the pretty skin, is furnished by wise Dame Nature to make the apple attractive so it will be carried about and the seeds distributed.

The picture is taken from a bulletin on "Gross Morphology of the Apple," by E. J. Kraus, the first of a series on "The Pollination of the Pomaceous Fruits" to be issued from the research laboratories of the Oregon Agricultural college experiment station. Mr. Kraus treats the subject in a thoroughly scientific manner, going into careful detail as to the structure of the different parts of the apple and their relation with a view to establishing his contention that pollination, for instance, of a yellow apple with pollen from a red apple affects the inner fruit rather than the exterior.

The idea of having the poles longer than the silo is high is to get pulleys high enough for last raise.—National Stockman and Farmer.

Chicks Need Cleanliness.

Drinking dishes and feeding troughs for chicks are likely to become dirty and insanitary unless special precautions are taken, according to Professor J. G. Halpin of the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin. Drinking water should never be placed in common dishes or vessels where the chicks may get in with both feet, but "sanitary" fountains, either homemade or purchased, should be used. These should be cleaned and scalded at frequent intervals. Wet mashes when fed in wooden troughs mold unless all refuse feed is scraped off and the troughs are placed on end so that they may dry in the sun. Neglect of these two simple matters may cause considerable loss.

Coverings For Silage.

The use of heavy tarpaulin to cover the surface of silage during summer feeding is being practiced quite successfully by some of the readers of the Kansas Farmer. The tarpaulin is very carefully spread over the whole surface of the silage, and the silage is removed from half the surface only at each feeding, alternating from one side of the silo to the other. In this way a thicker layer can be removed from the surface fed from daily. The tarpaulin cover retards the tendency to spoil on the surface left untouched.

college experiment station. Mr. Kraus treats the subject in a thoroughly scientific manner, going into careful detail as to the structure of the different parts of the apple and their relation with a view to establishing his contention that pollination, for instance, of a yellow apple with pollen from a red apple affects the inner fruit rather than the exterior.

PLANT BREEDING ON FARM.

The cry is becoming more general for better seeds. How are we to get them? As the situation is, says a correspondent of the American Agriculturist, I believe the answer to the question is to breed them ourselves. We often see in horticultural and agricultural periodicals articles that have a tendency to throw a wet blanket over this proposition, claiming that seed breeding is a business of its own, requiring special training to do it properly. This may be true, viewed from a scientific standpoint, and yet there are few market gardeners or truck farmers who cannot breed and grow what seeds they require for their individual plantings.

PICTURE FROCK IN BROWN SHA

In the fall a brown costume seems to tone with nature's colors the falling leaves and the general silence of reds and greens in the age.

This gown is what one might study in autumn tints. The skin brown chiffon cloth and has straight folds to the feet, where more voluminous than the jup have been wearing.

The kimono bodice is of a thin with a leaf design carried out autumn tints of green, dull brown reds.

Root Crops For Dairy Cows.

No matter what some people tell you, turnips and other roots make fine milk producing feed. Turnips will not affect the flavor of milk if fed at the right time. If turnips are fed in large quantities, and two or three hours before milking, they are likely to give the milk an unpleasant taste, but if fed directly after milking no flavor whatever will be noticed.—Farm Progress.

HOW UNCLE SAM HELPS.

A bulletin of the bureau of plant industry, "a study of farm equipment in Ohio," gives a most valuable review of important data of this character gathered and collated with much painstaking care by Mr. L. W. Ellis. On twenty-one farms investigated the following was found to be the average distribution of capital invested: In land, drainage and water supply, 61 per cent; in buildings, 21 per cent; in implements and machinery, 5 per cent, and in live stock, 13 per cent. The bulletin gives much detailed information, of which the figures just quoted represent a gross summary.

Ours is the day of scientific management. No longer need the farmer slowly find his way to the best working conditions by a series of successive approximations. The government helps him to profit by the experience of others who have preceded him and have paid the heavy dues of that excellent but dear schooling.

Crinolines to Come.

Before the very tight skirt era we should have hailed with some approaching dismay the news from Paris that the fashions of 1830 anticipated to supersede those of the present year. But as a relief from the dragging skirts, no petticoats andous visions of hosiery the gown 1830 would be a welcome change.

It is the fashion now to deride the thing Victorian, but perhaps it will be extended to the year which was not Victorian. There is even a rumor that crinolines will low upon this revolution in dress, would be bad indeed, but scarcely worse than the plague of ugly andecorous dresses from which we now suffering.

MISS NORMA FREDERIC GIBBONEY.

"I have already made two arrests for game violations. I had no trouble with the prisoners. I carried a revolver and a shotgun, and the pothunters knew that I could use either of them."

Which announcement goes to show that Miss Norma Frederic Gibboney didn't become game warden merely to wear a bright badge. Miss Gibboney was appointed warden recently by Governor Emmet O'Neal of Alabama. She probably is the only woman in the United States with this sort of commission.

When the news of her appointment was made public the pothunters in their huts along the Mobile bay marshes thought it a good joke.

"She's one of these society women," they laughed. "She never would come out on a rainy day for fear of getting her feet wet. On with the killing."

They were fully convinced of their mistake when the handsome warden came upon two of their number slaughtering ducks and marched them in with one hand resting significantly on the black butt of the revolver at her hip.

Miss Gibboney's home is Aloha. It stands among acres of forest and foliage. Mobile bay stretches away to the east, and at the back is the Dog river. She is a deadly shot with a rifle and can bring down the mallards from behind a blind with the best shots in Mobile. It was her love for animals and not the passion for hunting that led her to become a game warden.

Miss Nevin, Aunt of Mr. Sayre, Writes Verses to Prospective Bride.

Miss Blanche Nevin, the sculptor, has composed a song of welcome to Miss Jessie Wilson, daughter of the president, who is to become the bride of Miss Nevin's nephew, Francis Bowes Sayre, which was recently given out for publication. It is as follows:

Fling the door open; swing the gate wide. Welcome the entering feet of the bride. Eager the groom on the threshold stands, Holding his arms and his outstretched hands.

Blessed are you who true love win. Jessie, come in, come in!

In heat of summer, in winter's cold, This roof shall shelter young or old. Come weal, come woe, whate'er betide, Palm to palm and side by side Into the house of your true love's kin, Jessie, come in, come in!

It is my firm belief that every woman should take "Fruit-a-tives" if she wants to keep herself in good health.

Before taking "Fruit-a-tives", I was constantly troubled with what is commonly known as "Nerves" or severe Nervousness. This Nervousness brought on the most violent attacks of Sick Headache, for which I was constantly taking doctors' medicine without any permanent relief. Constipation was also source of great trouble to me and for which the Doctors said "I would have to take medicine all my life", but "Fruit-a-tives" banished all these troubles and now I am a well woman"

ATTRACTIVE HATS.

Black and White Correct Millinery Colors This Season.

She is a very foolish maiden who allows her vanity to induce her to wear a tulle hat on the beach. Once or twice, on clear, fresh days, when there is a land breeze blowing, she may with safety wear a tulle hat on the sands, but if she continues to wear it the tulle will soon lose its crispness, a strange odor will cause her to wonder if a glue factory is near, and the tulle hat will become a limp, sticky, pliable object. To be sure, a malines is offered for sale which the manufacturers claim is impervious to salt breezes, but how is one to be certain that the milliner has used this waterproof malines? Better keep the tulle hat for the country or the trip to town and choose one trimmed with ribbon for the seaside.

She is a deadly shot with a rifle and can bring down the mallards from behind a blind with the best shots in Mobile. It was her love, for animals and not the passion for hunting that led her to become one of the Alabama game police.

"It is the birds that I particularly want to protect," said Miss Gibboney recently when speaking about her work. "We seldom realize how much good they do. If they didn't prey constantly on the insects we would be without vegetation before very long. I am familiar with every bird of Alabama. Ten years ago you could see flocks of beautiful blue cranes in the edge of the water out there. Now they are curiosities.

"I have recently fitted out a log cabin in the midst of ten acres of forest that is just as nature made it. I intend to spend the rest of my life there."

Miss Gibboney is well known over the entire south. She is a frequent visitor to New Orleans. She is a descendant of Zack Taylor, Patrick Henry and the Virginia Sheltons. She is prominent in society. From now on she won't see much of receptions and pink teas.

Concerning Women.

Mrs. Elsie Clews Parsons of New York has written a book which she calls "The Old Fashioned Woman." Mayor Gaynor, who generally is credited with saying what he thinks, declared that it is a most interesting book, but suggests that the title might be changed to "Primitive Fancies About the Sex."

Mrs. Metcalf resides at the station at Sackett Harbor, on Lake Ontario, and looks after the buildings, which are old and worn, for $1 a day. She is therefore the only woman "commandant" in the United States and was present when the monument to commemorate the victory in the war of 1812 was dedicated recently.

Miss Elizabeth C. Berdan in "Reminiscences of a Diplomat's Wife," by Mrs. Hugh Fraser, is described as a former friend of the grandchildren of Queen Victoria. Upon one occasion one of the princesses gave her a ring and excused the fact that it was not a more expensive one by the remark: "But, you know, Granny Vic is so stingy."

Mrs. Susie Root Rhodes, Librarian of the League of American Penwomen, is a member of the school board of Washington and has been chosen by the commissioners to represent the District of Columbia at the International congress of school hygiene to be held in Buffalo the last week in August. She is one of the editors of a cookbook now in the press.

Nonsense.

One whispers to his neighbor an article, the next one an adjective, next a singular noun, verb, adverb, a number, adjective and plural noun. The last one whispers to the first. Each says aloud what he has heard, and a complete sentence is formed.

Nice For Pa.

Peter (to gentleman caller): You ain't black, are you? Caller: Black, child? Why, no; I should hope not. What made you think I was? Peter: Oh, nothin'; pa said you were awfully niggardly.—London Express.

Palm to palm and side by side
Into the house of your true love's kin,
Jessie, come in, come in!

Sweet pink clover bloom over the grass,
Welcome the lover here with his lass,
Pride of the golden hair and eyes
Blue with the luminous hue of the skies.
Blessed are you who true love win.
Jessie, come in, come in!

It was at Miss Nevin's home that Miss Jessie Wilson met Mr. Sayre, and following a recent visit there of the pair the engagement was announced.

tastes, but the chief characteristics of the old piece of headgear are clearly seen.

The puffed crown is of bright green silk and the brim of gray straw. About the crown is a band of black velvet dotted with green silk roses. The veil is of white washable chiffon cloth.

A Good Suggestion.

When you go on your summer trip have four or five pieces of mat or straw board cut the size of the inside of your trunk, so that they will slip in easily. Wrap dressed in tissue paper and tie to these boards with tape. You can pack or unpack and nothing need be disturbed until it is ready to be worn. You may almost live in a trunk with such an arrangement.

To Launder Handkerchiefs.

A sheet of glass large enough to hold two handkerchiefs on each side is a convenient article to put in the trunk. It can be easily exposed to light and air and irons handkerchiefs better than a windowpane or mirror.

shape, and it is a practical choice for the beach. A black hat does not look quite as summery or light as an all white hat, but the sun cannot damage it as it can one of colored straw, or even one of the natural tone straw, which may become actually sunburnt. There is a fad for trimming some of the black hats with blue ribbon bows, and a few of the bolder spirits among the fashion leaders are appearing in brown straw hats. When the latter are worn with brown shoes and stockings and a sash of brown moire or tulle the effect is really artistic. The hat pictured is a black creation made attractive with a wreath and a mount of gourd feathers.

THE KITCHEN SINK.

Keep the Pipe Hidden From View Absolutely Clean.

One of the things that every housewife should look after carefully is the kitchen sink. Many a good housewife will keep the enameled part of the sink spotless, the woodwork polished as white as possible and imagine that her sink is clean. This is right. The sink should be kept spotless from every stain or discoloration, but the cleaning must go further than this.

The pipe that is hidden from view should be kept just as clean as the porcelain part. Crumbs, tea leaves and greasy water, matches and little bits of this and little bits of that find their way into the pipe, and it soon becomes clogged. This sometimes occasions a plumber's bill and makes carelessness in this regard very expensive; but, more than the plumber's bill, the dirty sink pipe may occasion illness. It cannot help but give off impure odors, thus vitiating the atmosphere of the kitchen and contaminating everything around it.

A splendid little device for keeping things out of the sink pipe that ought not to go in is a sink strainer. This strainer can be set in the sink and the water passed through it before reaching the sink pipe. This serves to strain out all the bits of dirt that would otherwise find their way into the sink pipe.

Care, however, should be taken in other ways also. In washing dishes every dish should be cleaned of particles of food before being put into the water. Every day or so boiling water should be poured into the pipe. A piece of common soda dissolved in the water will help remove any greasiness from the pipe. Milk should never be poured down the sink, because it causes the pipe to become sour. With just a little care the housewife can keep the pipe of the sink free from grease and dirt. Then, with a clean pipe, spotless enamel and polished woodwork, the kitchen sink will be sweet and wholesome and a credit to the one who takes care of it.

VANLUVEN BROS.

Everything promises great for a bigger and better Fair than ever at Picton this year. The demand for space already is so great that the directors are erecting a new building to accommodate the exhibits. Our readers will be glad to know that the Str. Brockville is the boat that will carry excursionists to Picton Fair on Thursday, Sept. 25th.

Erinsville picnic, at which were assembled over 1500 people was the scene of another Stock Judging Competition. The winners were as follows: First, Frank Dean; Second, Bruce Lynch; Third, Stan Mulroney; Fourth, John Murphy; Fifth, J. O'Neill. The prizes were as follows: $3.00; $2.50; $2.00; $1.50; $1.00, respectively. Much enthusiasm was taken in the proceedings as the contest was an entirely new venture. Messrs. Curran and Harding of the Ontario Department of Agriculture officiated as judges. It is to be hoped that similar contests as they become known to the young men of this country will receive as good a reception as did the one at Erinsville.

The Napane Brick Yard.

After months of preparation the Napane brick yard commenced to make brick on Tuesday, and though the machinery is not running quite smooth and the employees are most of them new to the work, they are turning out brick at a rapid rate. The machine delivers 108 bricks a minute onto an endless belt and half a dozen men are necessary to pile them up and place them in the driers.

At Lennox County Fair
September 16-17.

Did You Ever Get Anything for Nothing?

If not you will experience this by calling upon me, at my store in Napanee. I am selling out my Dry Goods Stock to devote my entire attention to the fur trade. I have in stock a large number of Ladies' Waists and Umbrellas and I am ready to give one of either to every customer who buys $10.00 worth of goods of any kind in my store during the two days of the County Fair. That is a $1.00 Waist or Umbrella to each of such customers.

COME EARLY as this offer will only continue while my stock of Ladies' Waists and Umbrellas last.

The machine delivers 108 bricks a minute onto an endless belt and half a dozen men are necessary to pile them up and place them in the driers. In a few days everything will be working smoothly and in a couple of weeks the company expect to have bricks ready for delivery.

The County Fair.

The management of the fair are getting everything in readiness for an unusually large attendance this year and are providing special attractions. On Tuesday evening the Baby Show will no doubt attract special attention. Following the baby show will be a vaudeville and musical entertainment well worth hearing. On Wednesday afternoon the Collegiate Cadet Corps will give an exhibition drill on the fair grounds and the Napanee Band will furnish music both days of the fair. Additional special prizes:

W. H. Hunter—Ten dollars for best colt, 1913, by Louie. 1st, $5.00; 2nd, $3.00; 3rd, $2.00.

Special—Subscription to Toronto Daily World for one year for best single turnout owned and driven by farmer or farmer's son.

Auction Sale.

Of farm stock, implements. The undersigned will offer for sale by public auction on the Wm. Aylsworth farm, Bay shore road, one mile East of Bath, on Wednesday, Sept. 24th, 1913, at 10 o'clock: 2 young horses, 6 and 8 years, Colt, 1 year old, Hackney, sucking colt, mare with foal, eight milch cows, 2 yearlings, 2 calves, brood sow, 20 White Wyandotte hens, set double harness, 2 sets single harness, double wagon and rack, democrat, 2 cutters, pleasure sleigh, double sleigh, 3 sleigh boxes, horse rake, mowing machine, disc harrow, iron harrow, roller, seeder, walking plow, sulky plow, binder, cultivator, oats hay, buckwheat, etc., and other articles.

P. C. PURVIS, W. PRESTON,
Proprietor. Auctioneer.

Tamworth Fair.

"The best feature of the fair," is what many farmers said of the Stock Judging Contest. Twenty contestants took part in the Judging and the winners were: First, Tom Harrison; second, James O'Neil; third, Clarence Neville; fourth, Jim Burns; fifth, Tommy Carl. The prizes were respectively: $3.00, $2.50, $2.00, $1.50, $1.00. Great enthusiasm prevailed through the whole contest, especially among the older men. The boys had to judge an open Agricultural Class of horses and it was by no means an easy class, and the boys are to be complimented on their good work. Mr. Harding, of the Agricultural Office, officiated and acted as judge, giving reasons to substantiate the correct placing. A very large crowd gathered around to listen and it was remarked by many as the crowd dispersed that it was the finest thing on the grounds. It is hoped that the competitions at the County Fair will be as well supported. All the young men in the county under 25 years of age are strongly urged to participate in this great educational feature at the coming Napanee Fair.

Osteopathy, Drugless Treatment.

All sufferers with chronic troubles, neurasthenia, rheumatism, paralysis, stiffness or deformity, etc., etc., should investigate Osteopathy, the new treatment. Dr. Ashcroft visits Napanee Tuesdays and Saturdays, 1.30 to 6.30. No charge for literature and consultation.

We are pleased to announce that we have been appointed sole representatives in Napanee for the House of Hobberlin, tailors to the Canadian gentleman. This firm we have been informed employs a most skillful and artistic designer to whom they pay the modest sum of $8000 per annum. Their sample outfit is the most elaborate we have ever seen from any house doing a special order business. We KNOW their Cloths are of a high order and the range embraces every line that a good dresser could desire. They absolutely guarantee every garment they turn out to be perfect in fit and workmanship. Money back if not satisfactory, and no grumbling. What more could any man ask. We would be delighted to show their range of samples to any man contemplating the purchase of a new suit. If you order and the garments are not entirely satisfactory to YOU it will cost you nothing whatever but the time you spent in making your selection. We know of no fairer way of doing business.
